INTRODUCTION.

THIS Manuscript is one of the many curiosities presented to the British Museum by the late Mr. Henderson, and contains the following note, Presented by John Henderson Esq.

of 3 Montagu St. Russell Square
6th. of Dec^r 1859.

Where it was obtained or how, is of little consequence: possibly it was purchased at an auction; naturally it must have passed from the keeping of the proper officer of the Society long ago, to finally find a proper resting place in the British Museum (Add. Ms. N^o. 23202).

At the time my copy was made some years ago, it was still, though much worn, in the original full Russia-leather binding as prepared for its first owners. It is written on good stout paper, and measures 13 inches by 8 inches and 5/8ths. Each page as will be seen from the fac-similes, has a double ruled border of red, the text being written on both sides of the leaves.

It may be well to mention that the whole of the text here printed has been compared with the original manuscript, before being printed off. It was found to be as difficult as unnecessary to reproduce all the variations in the style of writing used by the scribe, some endeavour to do so has however been made. The facsimile pages will be found sufficient to show the general character of the original.

The first page of writing is occupied with an illuminated Title containing the armorial bearings of the Founders. It is to be noticed that the place of honour is given to the first Præses, or President, William Gulston, and that the next rank is allowed to the Dictator and Director of all Musical Performances, Geminiani, whose shield is blank. The fourteenth shield has also never been filled, it being intended for the Arms or Cypher of the successor of Geminiani in the office of Director: in which case a new "Token" would be engraved according to Rule xv. A special order was made as to the use of Geminiani's "Token," in case of his death, or his leaving the Society, (Rule vii.)

Some of the colours in the Arms having faded, it may be well to describe the Coats; most of the colours may be easily recovered from the beautiful drawings of the Tokens of Distinction, of which facsimiles are here also given in the plates.

- 1—GULSTON, Ex domo Wymondham, in Com. Leicest. Argent, two bars nebulée Gules, over all a bend Sable, charged with three plates. Crest on a wreath Argent and Gules, an ostrich wing of five feathers, three Argent, two Gules, over all a bend as in the shield.
- 2—KNEVIT, Ex Buckenham Castle, in Com. Norfolk. Argent a bordure engrailed and a bend Sable.
- 3—JONES, Ex Regioduno [Kingston] Comitatu Herefordia, Tenné, a stag Argent attired and unguled Or.
- 4—SQUIRE [probably of London], Sable a chevron engrailed Argent between three swans' necks erased proper.
- 5—COTTON, Ex dom. Cumbermer: Com. Pal. Cest. Ar[miger]. Azure a chevron charged with a Silver crescent, between three hanks of cotton Argent, a label of three points Or.
- 6—BALL, Argent a chevron Sable, between three flaming balls proper.
- 7—MARSHALL, barry of six Argent and Sable, a canton Ermine.
- 8—GEMINIANI, no Arms, shield blank.
- 9—SHUTTLEWORTH, Argent three weavers' shuttles in horizontal positions Sable, tipped and furnished with quills of yarn Or, the threads pendent of the same.
- 10—HARBIN [perhaps of co. Somerset], Azure a Saltire voided between four spear heads Or.
- 11—MURRAY, Ex dom. Pulrosia, in Com. Sutherlandia. Argent a fetterlock Sable, on a chief Azure three cinquefoils Or.
- 12—CORVILLE, Gules a chevron Or, between two bunches of grapes in chief, proper, and a lion rampant in base, of the second.
- 13—DRAPER, Gules four bendlets Or; a chief per fesse Argent and Ermine, the first charged with three fleurs-de-lis Sable.
- 14—Blank. Prepared for the successor of Geminiani.

The original illuminated title, of which a facsimile in the proper colours is here given, was painted by North Stainer (Grand Steward in 1725), who received £2 12s. 6d. for the work on the 17th of September, 1725: the ornamental writing of the Fundamental Constitutions and Orders, of which some facsimiles are also added, was executed by either John or Coningsby Moore; the sum of £5 5s. being paid to the latter on the 14th of October, 1725. Coningsby Moore, who appears to have been a professional penman, was also paid one guinea on the 23rd of June, 1726, for writing the Orders (or Minutes) to the 30th of December, 1725.

The minutes commence on the 18th of February, 1724, old style, i.e., 1725, and continue without interruption to the 23rd of March, 1726 [1727], covering a period of a little over two years. The book consists of 410 pages, and the records end about half-way down page 296, the remainder of the volume being blank.

Beyond the great interest of the references to Free Masonry it contains, the manuscript has another value; it is, as far as I have been able to discover, the only remaining example of minutes kept by any of the Musical Societies of the last century. Possibly the necessity did not arise in other cases.

Though the welding together into one body of two of the Seven Liberal Sciences was perhaps unusual in the Musical Societies of the period, it was not unnatural. The opening sentences of these records are in praise of Geometry, Parent of all Arts and Sciences; and we are told that Music and Architecture, the Happy produce of Geometry, have such affinity, they Justly may be Stil'd Twin Sisters, and Inseperable.

Either from inadvertence, or more probably by design, no qualification for Membership is defined in the rules. Freemasonry had at that time, like the Musical Societies, secured a place in popular favour, and it is not surprising to find, that although not specified, the Members were obliged to be Masons; this as well as the fact that Painters as well as others interested in Art were admitted, appears to have been the Architectural side of the Society.

To this portion of the subject I must refer again; in order, however, that the position of the Society may be understood, it will be necessary to give a slight sketch of the events in the History of Music, which led to its foundation.

From the time of the Restoration, when the dark days of the Puritanical ideas were over, there was more music and song in England. Church music was restored, the theatres were opened, concerts were given, and the nobility and gentry became themselves amateur performers. The Duke of Buckingham, the companion of Charles the Second, is called by Pope "a fiddler." Pepys, in his diary, records that he went a second time in 1664 to the Musique-meeting at the Post-office; he attends the performance of vocal and instrumental music at Whitehall, and was himself a musician. Music being, as he writes, "the thing of the world that I love most," he constantly refers to it in his diary.

Once established the taste increased, and the taste or wish for music became general, not only in the houses of the nobility, but elsewhere. Concerts were instituted, John Banister, a violinist of considerable repute, being the first to establish lucrative concerts, in the year 1672, at his house in Whitefriars, Fleet Street. They were held daily at four o'clock in the afternoon, the charge for admission being one shilling.

At the beginning of the eighteenth century, the Italian music having been for about fifty years steadily gaining ground, many persons of distinction and others had attained to great proficiency in the performance on the viol da gamba, the violin and the flute. The arrival of Geminiani and Veracini in 1714, writes Dubourg, formed the commencement of an important epoch in the progress of the violin in England. Musical clubs and societies were held at different taverns and other houses, there being at that time few, if any, proper concert rooms in London. In 1710 Mr. Henry Needler, the Earl of Abercorn, who was one of the performers, and others, formed at the Crown and Anchor Tavern, opposite St. Clement's Church, the plan of the Academy of Ancient Music, for the collection of manuscripts, as well as the study and performance of vocal and instrumental music.

At the breaking up at the time of his death (1714) of Thomas Britton's Concerts, which were given at his house, near St. John's Gate, Clerkenwell, on Thursdays, the subscription price being ten shillings, the persons who frequented them, Musicians, Poets, Artists, Peers and Peeresses, formed themselves into little societies that met for musical recreation at taverns in different parts of the town. The Castle Society of Music, as it was called at a later period, was originally founded by Talbot Young, and first held in his father's house as a small society for the practice of music. It was attended by gentlemen performers, and before long, in order to secure greater accommodation, it was removed to the Queen's Head Tavern in Paternoster Row, the members paying a small subscription. It was again removed in 1724 to the Castle, also in Paternoster Row.

Another may be mentioned, the Philharmonic Society, founded about 1724, of which Festing was the first Violin. It also consisted of noblemen and gentlemen performers, and met on Wednesday nights during the winter season at the Crown and Anchor Tavern in the Strand. When Dr. Greene withdrew from the Academy in consequence of the dispute about the madrigal attributed to Bononcini, with the assistance of Festing, then first violin of the King's Band, he founded about the year 1731, at the Devil Tavern, Temple Bar, the Apollo Society, so named in part from the performances being given in the large room in that house called the Apollo. This gave rise to that well known joke among the members of the Academy, that Dr. Greene had gone to the Devil.

I have chosen only one or two specimens of the Musical Societies of the end of the seventeenth and beginning of the eighteenth century, for the purpose of showing the continuous existence of similar bodies down to the date at which the Philo-Musicæ Societas was founded. One other must be added to this very short list; it was perhaps directly the precursor of the Society of which the minutes are recorded in this manuscript. Of it I have no more information than is contained in the statement that Mr. John Cock, who was made a Mason at the meeting held on the 16th of December, 1725, is referred to in the minutes as having been "one of the Founders of the late Society Entitled Philo-Musicæ Societas." It is evident that this was a musical society of the ordinary kind, having no restriction as to its members being Masons. In this it was perhaps not singular, but we have every reason to think that in the early times of Masonry there was much more music and singing in the Lodges than there is at the present time.

The full title of the new Society was, PHILO-MUSICÆ ET ARCHITECTURÆ SOCIETAS. APOLLINI, and it is recorded in the minutes of the meeting held on the 28th of October, 1725, that Oliverson, the landlord of the Queen's Head, near Temple Bar, in respect to the Right Worshipful and highly Esteem'd Society, had on the 20th of October, put up a new sign, painted by our well beloved Brother James Parmentier, vizt., the Apollo, under which name the Tavern is several times referred to in the minutes at a later date.

The Society used Freemasonry as a medium for the introduction of Members, and there is little doubt that the greater part of the evening was employed in the study and performance of music, as was the usual custom in societies of the kind. Doubtless among the members there were many of those amateur performers mentioned above, although at this distance of time it would be difficult to specify the particular part taken by each member. Such notes on this and other matters as I have been able to collect will be found under each name in the list of members. At the concerts, under the direction of Geminiani, professional performers were employed, probably from the opera, as was done at the Castle Concerts and others.

The Society was founded "to fix and establish a Mutual Society of True Lovers of Music and Architecture;" the architectural portion appears, as I have already suggested, to have consisted principally in the rule that every member must be a Free Mason. To the musical portion there are many references in the book of records. Musical entertainments were given, to which ladies were admitted, both vocal and instrumental performers being engaged.

A collection of music was ordered to be made; some being presented, and some, as was usual at the period, copied in manuscript by the well-known copyist Shuttleworth. Corelli's Solos in Concerto Grossi, by Geminiani, were subscribed for, and it was ordered that a catalogue of the music in the possession of the Society should be made.

Musical instruments were obtained, including a violin, made by Edward Pamphilon, presented by William Gulston, which would, at the present time, be of considerable value. He was the most celebrated of the London violin makers in the second half of the seventeenth century, and lived upon London Bridge.

Although musical instruments are not often mentioned in the records, it seems probable that the members used their own instruments, like Thomas Shuttleworth, who, when he resigned his Directorship of the Society, asks for his violin case and bow, because it belonged to his father. The instruments were repaired by, and cases and bows were purchased from the then well known firm of Barrat and Meeres, musical instrument makers. Richard Meares had a house in St. Paul's Church Yard, and was associated with Handel's amanuensis Christopher Smith, in the publication of the opera "Radamistus," by Handel, licensed the 14th of June, 1720, but printed without a date. Richard Meares died about 1743. Mr. William Meirs was a member of the Lodge held at the Black Lion, Jockey Fields, about the year 1730.

The Musical Societies or Clubs, as is well known, were generally commenced by someone who was himself a performer of music; in this instance although the founders if not all musicians, were at least admirers of that Art and Science, the Society itself centres round one of the most, if not the most celebrated, violinist of the time. The esteem in which he was held by the Society may be seen from the viith and xvth Articles (pp. 15, 17).

Francesco Xauerio Geminiani, and I may here mention that his second name does not seem to be anywhere recorded in the ordinary books of reference, was elected at the commencement of the Society "Sole and Perpetual Dictator and Director of all the Musical Performances." In the performance of the duties of his office, as well as in fulfilling the object for which the Society was founded, he was naturally the one who selected, not only the music to be performed, but the musicians. The names of some of these are recorded in the Minutes, and I would here thank my friend Mr. C. Kupferschmidt, who has, with his usual kindness, furnished me with the material for the musical portion of these notes, as well as for the notices of the musicians mentioned. These performers were, it is true, but few in number, but of excellent quality, and it will be seen that although Geminiani, as was to be expected, chose some of those of his own countrymen who were, at that time, at the head of the Science, he did not overlook, perhaps out of consideration for the ladies, those Englishmen Eccles and Smith, who had devoted themselves to a lighter and more catching style of music.

It may be well to end the account of the musical portion of the Society with short biographical notes of the performers, this being more particularly a Musical Society it would be incomplete without them.

FRANCESCO XAUERIO GEMINIANI was born in Lucca, in 1680; studied at Milan, under Carlo Ambrogio Lonati, surnamed "il Gobbo," and under Corelli at Rome. In 1714 he came to England, and by his exquisite performances on the violin quickly captivated all lovers of music, and secured a great reputation. He appears to have devoted his time more to teaching and playing in the houses of the nobility than to performing in public; his patrons were, it is said, bountiful, and his pupils as many in number as he could possibly attend to. By this means he supported himself. When asked to perform at a Court Concert he only consented on the condition that Handel should be invited to accompany him.

Less than two years after his arrival in this country he published twelve Sonatas (Lond. 1716); the effect of these compositions was to raise the question in the minds of the lovers of music whether Geminiani was more excellent as a performer or as a composer. Of his talents Hawkins, who knew him, writes (p. 904), "he had none of the fire and spirit of the modern violinists, but all the graces and elegancies of melody, all the powers that can engage attention, or that render the passions of the hearer subservient to the will of the artist, were united in his performance."

The Society therefore secured for its Musical Director one who was esteemed the greatest violinist of his time, and a composer of great excellence. At the time of his association with the Philo Musicæ he published Concertos of the first six solos of Corelli, to which the Society subscribed.

In 1727 he refused the position of Master and Composer of the State Music in Ireland, the place having been secured for him by his patron, the Earl of Essex. He did this from religious scruples, as one of the conditions was that the office must be held by a Protestant, and Geminiani, who was a member of the Catholic Church, considered that the thought of renouncing that faith in which he had been baptised, for the sake of worldly advantage was what he could in no way answer to his conscience.

He appears to have rarely made use of his great talents as a performer, and his published compositions were not sufficiently successful to provide a living; the peculiarity and eccentricity of his character prevented his ever gaining a secure position in life. To these must be added the great inclination to rambling, to which he had ever been a slave; he made frequent visits to Italy, France, Holland and other countries. One other, and perhaps the most common failing, a fancy in which he imitated the example of his master, Corelli, is mentioned by Hawkins; Geminiani was an enthusiast in painting, "the versatility of his temper was such, that, to gratify this passion, he not only suspended his studies and neglected the exercise of his talents, but involved himself in straits and difficulties, which a small degree of prudence would have taught him to avoid. To gratify his taste he bought pictures, and, to supply his wants, he sold them; the necessary consequence of this kind of traffic was loss, and its concomitant necessity." His difficulties were great, and to avoid the consequences the Earl of Essex, who was a lover of music and had been taught the violin by Geminiani, was prevailed upon to enroll him in the list of those servants of his whom he intended to screen from the process of the law. Geminiani was, however, arrested for a small debt and thrown into the Marchalsea, from whence, upon an application from his protector, he was in a short time released.

He never attended more in number as he could possibly attend to. By this means he was contented with himself. When asked to perform at a Court Concert he only consented on the condition that Handel should be invited to accompany him.

During the years 1748 to 1755 he was in Paris, where he had some of his compositions engraved. On his return to London he took lodgings at the Grange Inn, in Carey Street, and advertised the new publication for sale. He was now in his 75th year, and it is of this period of his life that Hawkins has preserved a characteristic anecdote. "A person who had the curiosity to see him, and went thither to purchase the book, gives this account of him: 'I found him in a room at the top of the house half filled with pictures, and in his waistcoat. Upon my telling him that I wanted the score and parts of both operas of his concertos, he asked me if I loved pictures, and upon my answering in the affirmative, he said that he loved painting better than music, and with great labour drew from among the many that stood upon the floor round the room, two, the one the story of Tobit cured of his blindness, by Michael Angelo Caravaggio; the other a Venus by Corregio.' 'These pictures,' said Geminiani, 'I bought at Paris, the latter was in the collection of the Duke of Orleans; they are inestimable, and I mean to leave them to my relations. Many men are able to bequeath to their relations great sums of money, I shall leave to mine what is more valuable than money, two pictures that are scarcely to be matched in the world.' After some farther conversation, in which it was very difficult to get him to say any thing on the subject of music, the visitor withdrew, leaving Geminiani to enjoy that pleasure which seemed to be the result of frenzy."

In 1761 he went to Ireland, where he was entertained by Matthew Dubourg, who had been appointed Master of the King's Band when Geminiani refused it from religious scruples. A treatise on Music, the result of many years labour, which he intended for publication, was here taken from his chamber by a maid servant, who, it is said, was recommended to him for that purpose. He survived the loss, which, from his inability to repair it, is supposed to have preyed on his mind but a short time, and died on the 17th of September, 1726, at the age of about 82 years.

O'Keefe, the dramatist, who often saw him in Dublin, has described him as a little man, sallow complexion, black eyebrows, pleasing face, his dress blue velvet, richly embroidered with gold.

The portrait here given is from an engraving by James McArdell, from a painting by Thomas Jenkins.

The list of his published works, some of which were purchased by the Society, and the effect of his teaching on the art of playing the violin, which would be out of place here, will be found in the histories of Music and Musicians.

FRANCESCO BARSANTI was born at Lucca, about the year 1690, and having studied the Law at the University of Padua, gave up that profession and turned his attention to music. He put himself under some of the ablest masters of the time. After a period of study he decided to settle in England, and being a native of the same place as Geminiani, and a friend, they came here together in 1714. He was a good performer on the flute, which he taught with considerable advantage, as well as the oboe, which he played for many years in the Opera Band. He published a selection of Old Scots' Tunes (Edinburgh, 1742), issued when he held a situation in Scotland. He also published solos for the flute, as well as sonatas for two violins and a bass of the first six Solos by Geminiani.

He returned to London and the Opera Band about the year 1750, playing the tenor violin at the opera in winter, and at Vauxhall in the summer. At the close of his life he was dependent on his wife, whom he had married in Scotland, and his daughter, an actress and singer of considerable ability, who performed at Covent Garden.

JOHN ECCLES was the eldest son of the celebrated Simon Eccles, a master of the violin; and brother of Henry, the violinist, and Thomas, the itinerant Tavern Musician. John was born about the middle of the seventeenth century, and, like his brothers, learned music from his father. About 1685 he became a composer for the theatre of act tunes, dance tunes, and the incidental songs which occurred in the comedies of that period, a collection of which he published and dedicated to Queen Anne. In this occupation he continued for more than a quarter of a century, and on the death of Dr. Nicholas Staggins, was appointed the master of the King's Band of Music. He was one of the principal composers of his time of the song and dance tunes, which were received with applause at the theatres; the freshness and flow of his melodies rendered his songs universal favourites.

In the latter part of his life he gave up his profession, except the annual production of the Birthday and New Year's Odes. Being very fond of fishing he retired to Kingston-on-Thames, where he died in January, 1735.

Mr. DAVID BOESEWILLIBALD was probably the only professional vocalist who performed at the concerts, if we may judge from the payment made to him, £2 8s. od., compared with the amount of £3 3s. od., given to Barsanti, Pardini, and Scarpottini. His voice was a baritone, or a tenor bass, as it was then called. On the marriage of Frederick William, afterwards King of Prussia, with the Duchess Sophia Dorothea of Hanover, on the 28th of November, 1706, Boesewillibald performed the part of Prince in the opera "Alexanders and Roxanen Wedding."

CHARLES PARADINI, Musician, of whom I have no information.

Mr. GAETANO SCARPOTTINI, Musician, of whom I have no information.

JOHN SMITH, Musician, pp. 130, 132, 295. This may have been John-Christopher Smith, the pupil of Handel, who set "Teraminta," by Henry Carey, to music.

In the list of portraits taken in crayon by George Dance, R.A. (N. and Q. 9th S. iv., July 1899, pp. 1-3) occurs, — Smith, musician.

When the Society was founded on the 18th of February, 1724, i.e., 1725, a number of Rules and Orders were arranged, with the intention "to Fix, and Establish such a Mutual Society of True Lovers of Music and Architecture on a Foundation which will be Permanent." The reasons and explanation of the action are engrossed on the first four pages.

The Fundamental Constitution and Orders fill twenty-eight pages of the Ms.* They were as firmly established as possible, as it is ordered that they were

* The first twelve pages are here given in facsimile, and in the printed text they follow the original, line for line and page for page. Of the remainder of the text the pagination will be found in the margin. All autograph signatures are given in italic capital letters, and any addition to the original text in square brackets.

"To Remain for Ever and Not to be Altered or Amended By any part or The whole Body of This Society at any Time Hereafter;" this rule being signed by the eight Founders.

The Society was to consist of thirteen Directors, elected by the eight Founders, who themselves were the first eight. The Directors, subject to the Articles, had the entire control, one of them being elected by themselves by ballot to hold the office of President for three months, he having the power of appointing "two Censors, or his Senior and Junior Warden, for the time being." In the same Article he is spoken of as "President or Master."

A distinct qualification appears to have been required for each of the principal offices, as is in one of the Rules (p. 34) it is ordered "That no Director be chosen President or Censor but shall pass a Publick Examination on his Election if Demanded by any one of the Thirteen, and being judg'd not Qualified for either Office to Resign. That a President being Elected and Prov'd duly Qualified," etc. The qualification would probably include a knowledge of music as well as of the Masonic ceremonies.

If by death, retirement, or from other causes, the office of President or Censors became vacant, they were to be filled according to the Rules. The place of a Director was to be supplied, under similar circumstances, from the members by the ballot of the remaining Directors. On anyone being elected to the principal offices, and refusing to serve, fines were demanded, but there do not appear to have been any Fees of Honour.

On the absence of either of the three principal officers at the meetings, they were to succeed in rota. The possibility of all the officers being absent does not seem to have been contemplated. The Directors could vote by written proxy.

Members were to be elected by ballot, only by the unanimous consent of the President, Censors and Directors, or so many of the thirteen as might be present. By Article xx. Directors Kin have the privilege of being elected gratis, and precedence when a new Director was to be chosen. An entrance fee was demanded from the ordinary joining members (p. 33).

Members by favour were those elected like Thomas Oliverson and John Guest, to be useful to the Society, but they had no right or privilege in the affairs of the Society.

There appears to have been no limit to the number of members, the elections being left to the discretion of the Directors, subject to the Rules.

On the 19th of January, 1726, a Registrar was elected, with a salary of £10 10s. a year. His duties will be found entered on page 108.

The subscription of the members was two shillings and sixpence each night, and orders with reference to quarterage are entered; calls were made from time to time, also money was borrowed in order to discharge the various expenses incurred. To some of these expenses I shall refer again.

The meetings were held at first on every other Thursday, and afterwards more frequently. As regular musical practice was the principal object of the gatherings, it was of course necessary to enforce a regular attendance of those, at least, who assisted in the performance, therefore strict rules as well as fines for non-attendance were instituted.

It may be fairly assumed, that although professional performers were employed at the concerts already mentioned, to which the public were invited, the members themselves, as was usual in Musical Societies, took some part in the performance.

Account books were kept (see p. 113), and the quarterly accounts are referred to. It is much to be regretted that none of these appear to have survived.

Free Masons were alone admitted as visitors, except to the concerts, when the public as well as the performers required by Geminiani to strengthen the performance were present. The ordinary visits were limited to once a quarter, and then only on presentation by a member, and with the approval of all those present. A visitor paid five shillings for his entertainment.

Rule viii. is worth remarking, "That if any Person or Persons shall talk of RELIGION or POLITICKS or controvert any part or points of them shall be Expelled the SOCIETY without any Appeal." Expulsion meant that attendance was not possible even as a visitor.

Musical entertainments were sometimes held on the days on which the election of officers took place. The anniversary was respected as a festival. Concerts were given, "both Vocal and Instrumental for the Entertainment of the Ladys And the Honour of this Right Worshipfull and Highly Esteem'd Society." That the Festival was a success on one occasion is clear from the record : "at which Meeting was a very splendide Appearance of Ladies."

The above expresses the main lines on which the Society was governed, some of the Rules and Orders being based on the Regulations of the Free Masons. Other Rules are interesting, but need not be detailed here.

Certain "Tokens of Distinction" were instituted for the various Founders, Officers and Directors, with which they were formally invested after election. The Rules about them will be found in Articles iii., iv., vii., xiv., xv., xvi. and xx. The Tokens are described with some minuteness, a page of ornamental writing being devoted to each. The peculiar sizes are worthy of remark; if they conceal some very deep symbolism, I have failed to discover it, like the reason of the peculiar and commonly, though foolishly, supposed unlucky thirteen being chosen for the number of the Directors.

Only thirteen Tokens were to be made of gold or silver gilt, and these were to be handed down to those who succeeded to the office of Director, except in the case of that worn by Geminiani, to which, should the occasion occur, particular honour was to be allowed. They were not to be taken away, but were to be kept in a box having three separate locks, the keys of which were to be in the keeping of the President and the Censors. Duplicates of the Tokens might be obtained by any of the first thirteen Directors, but not by their successors.

They were to be worn suspended round the neck by a black ribbon not less than two inches broad, at meetings of the Society; if worn out of the Society "as each of the thirteen pleases," but no other coloured ribbon was to be used.

Facsimiles of the very beautiful drawings of the Tokens in the original manuscript, will be found in the plates, and it is curious to note that neither in the description nor in the drawings is there any symbol of Freemasonry, unless the pedestal supporting the Arms and bearing the motto of the Society, Apollini, may be taken as referring to Architecture.

These Tokens or Jewels were ordered to be obtained, of silver, and paid for out of the Public Treasury; the engraving, gilding and ornaments, to be made at the cost of each individual Director. The engraving included the Armorial Bearings of the person for whom the Token was intended. They were supplied by Mr. Thomas Bamford, and paid for on the 30th of September, 1725. So far as I am aware no single example of these jewels has survived.

The Society appears from the commencement to have expended more money than the funds at its disposal warranted, and at one time was in debt to the Officers. On the 3rd of February, 1725-26, it is "Resolved. That the Acco^{ts} be Regulated and Methodized in Such manner and fform as Joshua Draper Esq^r shall direct. Ordered. That Proper Books be provided for that Purpose." As I have already mentioned, calls were made from time to time on the Members, and finally £100 was borrowed from the sisters of one of the Directors, a proper bond being drawn up for its repayment.

Some few of the items of expenditure are worthy of note. At the Festivals held on the election of the President and Censors, the "Proper Clothing" is supplied from the "Publick Treasury;" from an entry on the 17th of March, 1726, of five pounds sixteen shillings being paid (p. 125), the clothing appears to have been gloves. Again, it is arranged that on the Festival held on St. John the Baptist's Day, 1725, "the Society do go up the Water in Barges, if the Weather should be proper for that purpose." As no payment is made for the excursion, it may be supposed that the weather or some other cause prevented it.

On the 14th of October, 1725, it was ordered "That a Picture of the President Censors & Directors be painted on one large Canvas The Expence not to Exceed Three Hundred Pounds, to [be] paid for out of the Publick Treasury of this Society. Ordered That Bro^r Parmentier do perform the same."

Of James Parmentier some notes will be found in the list of members. The same artist painted the new sign, "The Apollo," when the tavern at which the Society met changed its name (p. 79). An agreement was signed about the picture of the President and Directors, and the first instalment of £26 5s. towards the cost, which was to be £105, was paid on the 27th of December, 1725; other payments were made (£7 14s., £6 10s.), amounting to £40 9s.

It is not clear from the Records whether the portraits were ever finished, but soon after the second payment was made, the receipt not being signed, the following order is entered: that the picture "shou'd not be mov'd to any place to be finish'd Except to the house of Bro^r W^m Gulston and there be kept by him till the Society think proper to remove it. Resolv'd that the Said Picture be mov'd as soon as Convenient to M^r Reg^t Gulstons new house in S^{te} Marie La Bonne ffields in Ord^r to be there intirely Compleated and ffinished."

A portion of the site of St. Mary la Bonne Fields is occupied by Cavendish Square, near to which is Holles Street, in which it seems to me probable the Queen's Head Tavern, where the Lodge met, was situated.*

On the 27th of October, 1726, when the third payment was made, Parmentier having shewn the "multitude of difficulties in carrying on the Design of painting the Pictures in one Canvas," proposed to "paint them seperately in three Quarters Cloth for five Guineas each," thus reducing the total cost from £105 to £68 5s.

On the 18th of November, 1725, it was resolved that a ship should be built, "not Exceeding in Burthen 100 Tunns nor in price fitted out to Sea One thousand Pounds," the future Captain being named and ordered to contract for the work at once.

On the 31st of the January following it was resolved that the work be "intirely stop't."

With the funds of the Society in anything but a flourishing condition, it is certain that some very enticing prospect of success, after, it may be, a long discussion, induced the rulers of the Society to embark on some such scheme as the Greenland Fishery, which followed so rapidly on the South Sea, and other Bubbles of that time.

The scheme of building and fitting out a ship having been abandoned, another means of adding to the funds of the Society was adopted. On the 15th of September, 1726, it was decided to buy a ticket in the State Lottery, the ticket to be at once obtained. On the 17th of September it is reported that ticket No. 85,302 had been purchased by the President, at the cost of £9 8s. On the 1st of December, 1726, it is announced that the ticket was drawn a blank, and although

* The Tavern at which the Lodge met is called the Queen's Head, Holles Street, Oxford Square. Oxford Square was the old name of Cavendish Square, and was also, it is said, at first intended to be given to Hanover Square, but the name Hanover was selected in adulation of the new dynasty. The two Squares, one on each side of what was at that time Oxford Road, were commenced nearly at the same time.

no prize was gained, the blank tickets in the State Lotteries having a certain value, on account of the payments made on them, the Society sold their ticket for £5 10s., on the 8th of December, 1726. No other scheme for increasing the funds of the Society is entered in the Records, but at the last transfer of the money in the Public Treasury made by the retiring officers to their successors on the 29th of December, 1726, the total amount was £4 13s. 1d.

As already stated, the Society was founded on the 18th of February, 1725, at the Queen's Head Tavern, near Temple Bar. It may be noticed that no Lodge appears to have met at this house. In August, 1725, the name of the house, in compliment to the Society, was changed to the Apollo.

Before referring to the often quoted entries of Masonic meetings held by the Society, it will be interesting to glance at the information given in the Records as to the various objects required in the year 1725, in order to properly conduct the ceremonies.

From the commencement, a Bible printed in the reign of Queen Elizabeth had been used, and was ultimately presented by William Gulston. The entry is dated the 13th of May, and the scribe in writing up the minutes has dated the letter 1726 instead of 1725. A cedar Pedestal with its ornaments, to cost twenty pounds; proper instruments and furniture belonging to it, suitable thereto. Proper Candlesticks, not exceeding in purchase five pounds. And a case to keep and preserve them, as also the Musical Books, papers and instruments, not exceeding in the purchase ten pounds. For the Pedestal and Case fifteen guineas was paid to Peter Reffer, on account, but differences having arisen, law expenses are charged concerning "Reffers affair," and he ceased to be a visitor to the meetings of the Society.

Four pounds eight shillings and four pence was paid to Thomas Fisher for the "proper furniture to a Pedestal,*" and four pounds eight shillings and sixpence for the candlesticks. A basket hilt sword with a dented blade, a brass drawing pen, and a square of brass and ebony had already been obtained.

Chairs were purchased for the President and the Censors. A copy of "The Book of Constitutions of Free Masons" was bought from John Brotherton, a bookseller and book binder; this was Anderson's Constitutions, dated 1723.

* cf. Constitutions, 1738, p. 124, "a rich Cushion with golden Knops and Fringes, for the Top of the Pedestal."

Again, on the 21st of July, 1726, "The Masons old Constitutions" was bought; this, no doubt, was the very rare book printed and sold by J. Roberts, dated 1722, and called the Old Constitutions. The first of these was probably obtained for a special purpose, more than for use at the Masonic meetings.

On the 23rd of ^{December} ~~September~~, 1725, "Thirty Six Prints of the Building of Solomons Temple to be published by our Brother James Parmentier" were subscribed for; a receipt for £10 16s., "in full for the First Payment" is entered on the 28th of December following.

This print is no doubt the one to be engraved by Claude du Bosc, who executed some of the plates for the English edition of Picart's Religious Ceremonies. It was to have been a large print, after a painting by Parmentier, of the Temple of Solomon. It is believed that it was never executed; no other reference to it is made in these Records.

The great interest and value of these Records as bearing on the subject of the degrees of Masonry has often been pointed out. In writing the Introduction to this volume of the Reprints, I have endeavoured to keep to my text, and not to digress more than seemed to me necessary for the explanation of that text. I shall therefore not enter into the vexed question of the early Masonic Degrees, largely because I hold that there is not sufficient direct evidence to enable us to state positively what was or was not the custom of the period before and immediately after the year 1717, when the present Grand Lodge first took shape and form.

It is, however, quite clear from the Records left by this Masonic and Music-loving Society that in February, 1725, after having been "made a Mason," the Brother was pass'd Fellow Craft, in "a Lodge consisting of Masters sufficient for that purpose;" that on and before December, 1724, men were "made Masons," and "regularly pass'd Masters," no mention being made of the intermediate degree of Fellow Craft; and that in May, 1725, the same brethren who were "pass'd Fellow Crafts" in February, 1725, were "pass'd Masters;" as also that it was possible at that date to pass one Brother both Fellow Craft and Master, and another Brother Fellow Craft alone, at the same meeting, both of them having been "made Masons" some time previously.

Hence it is certain that at this period, when the old term is used, "made a Mason," it did not include everything that was to be known, but that there were two more steps, Fellow Craft and Master Mason, which could be either given separately or together, as was thought fit, or as occasion required; or it may be perhaps as the candidate was prepared to pay.

Facsimiles of the most important of the entries relating to Masonic Degrees will be found among the plates, and it is perhaps worth remarking that on the 12th day of May, 1725, the witnesses include only the names of the President and his two Censors, there being no other signatures of those present, as was usually the case.

The opening sentences, describing the foundation of the Society, are, it will be noticed, almost without punctuation. This account of an event which took place on the 18th of February, 1725, was probably not engrossed in the Minute Book until some time after it happened.* It is a long sentence, occupying pages 6, 7 and 8; the mis-placement and omission of capital letters adds to the difficulty caused by the imperfect punctuation, and it would be easy to read the sentences in several different ways. They might indeed be so understood as to throw a doubt on the supposition that the Society held a Lodge, before the foundation, in order to make some of the Founders eligible.

The intention of the composers of these opening sentences must however not be overlooked. The idea evidently was to give a history of the Masonic rank of the eight who had come together to found the Society, and to record that a certain number of them were already Master Masons, "sufficient for the purpose" of passing other intended Founders to the degree of a Fellow Craft. It may be well, therefore, to break up the sentences, and add the punctuation that seems best to express the intention of the composers.

"On the 18th day of February this Society was founded and begun, at the Queen's Head, near Temple Bar, by us the eight underwritten, seven of which did belong to the Lodge at the Queen's Head in Hollis Street; and were made Masons there, in a just and perfect Lodge, vizt.

[1] Mr. WILLIAM GULSTON, Merchant;

[2] Mr. EDMUND SQUIRE, Gent, were made Masons, the 15th of December 1724, by Mr. Thomas Bradbury, Master of the said Lodge.

* The clerical error (p. 43), 1726 being written for 1725, might suggest the idea that the minutes were written up by the scribe in the year 1726. On the 26th of May, in that year, a payment was made to Coningby Moore "for entering fair the Orders . . . till the 30th of December last past."

- [3] COORT KNEVIT, Esq., and
 [4] Mr. WILLIAM JONES, Gent., were made Masons the 22nd of December 1724, by his Grace the Duke of Richmond, Grand Master, who then constituted the Lodge; immediately after which
 [5] CHARLES COTTON, Esqr., was made a Mason by the said Grand Master.
 [6] Mr. PAPILLON BALL, Merchant, and
 [7] Seigr. FRANCESCO XAVERIO GEMINIANI were made Masons, the 1st of February 1724 [i.e., 1725].
 [8] Mr. THOMAS MARSHALL, Gent. was made a Mason at the George in Long Acre, some time before.

The said Mr. WILLIAM GULSTON,
 COORT KNEVIT Esqr.
 Mr. WILLIAM JONES, and
 Mr. EDMUND SQUIRE, were regularly passed Masters in the before mentioned Lodge of Hollis Street.

And before we founded this Society, a Lodge was held, consisting of Masters sufficient for that purpose, in order to pass

CHARLES COTTON Esqr.
 Mr. PAPILLON BALL, and Mr. THOMAS MARSHALL,
 fellow-crafts, in the performance of which, Mr. William Gulston acted as Senior Warden.

Immediately after which, vizt. the 18th day of February 1724 [i.e., 1725], he the said Mr. William Gulston was chosen President of the said Society, and to continue in that Office to the 24th day of June, 1725." [etc.]

It will be noticed that although three of the intended Founders were passed Fellow-Crafts before they became Directors of the Society, it was not thought necessary for Geminiani, who also became a Director, to pass through the same ceremony, at this time.

The statement about the Lodge of Masters sufficient for the purpose, in which Gulston acted as Senior Warden, being made, seems to point to there having been some special reason for its introduction into the sentence. It seems probable that Gulston being a Master Mason, and acting as Senior Warden, there being no Master present performed the ceremony, otherwise it seems strange that no Master is mentioned. Had Gulston been the Master of a Lodge, it would most probably have been stated, as the fact might have removed a difficulty. In the Constitutions of 1738, page 145, it is stated that "The Wardens are chosen from among the Master-Masons,* and no Brother can be a Master of a Lodge till he has acted as Warden somewhere, except in extraordinary Cases; or when a Lodge is to be formed where none such can be had: For then 3 Master-Masons, tho' never Masters or Wardens of Lodges before, may be constituted Master and Wardens of that new Lodge. But no Number without 3 Master-Masons can form a Lodge," etc.

In this Charge is probably the reason for the statement being introduced that four of the Founders had been Regularly pas't Masters, in a just and perfect Lodge, at Holles Street, and it was considered that they were sufficient to hold a Lodge, and perform ceremonies. Gulston acted as Senior Warden, and perhaps this was a preliminary to the statement that "immediately after which [i.e., the Lodge held to pass the Fellow-Crafts] vizt., the 18th Day of February, A.D. 1724 [i.e., 1725] He the said Mr. Willm. Gulston was chosen President of the said Society, . . . who chose Coort Knevit Esqr. and Mr William Jones his Censors." It must be remembered that although the second Article reads, "That such President or Master shall have power to appoint two Censors or his Senior and Junior Warden, for the time being," the object was not to found a new Lodge, but to carry on the ceremonies of Masonry, as necessary for the purpose required, at a Masonic Meeting held in the Society.

The Old Regulation of 1720 was very clear, No. xiii. orders that no Mason is to be advanced beyond an Apprentice except in the Grand Lodge itself; this was not repealed until the 22nd of November, 1725, or about nine months after the above mentioned ceremonies took place. It is however more than probable that the original Regulation had been always more respected in the breach than in the observance, and that it was removed, as the feeling and usage of the whole Craft were against it, hence it was useless. The second portion of Old Regulation viii., is equally clear with regard to the foundation of new Lodges, "If any Set or

* This is somewhat altered and extended from the original text given in the 1723 Constitutions. Here Master Masons is substituted for Fellow-crafts.

Number of Masons shall take upon themselves to form a Lodge without the Grand-Master's Warrant, the regular Lodges are not to countenance them, nor own them as fair Brethren and duly form'd, nor approve of their Acts and Deeds; but must treat them as Rebels, until they humble themselves, as the Grand-Master shall in his Prudence direct, and until he approve of them by his Warrant, which must be signify'd to the other Lodges, as the Custom is when a new Lodge is to be register'd in the List of Lodges."

Among the earliest Minutes of the Grand Lodge preserved are several referring to the existence and foundation of Lodges; 25th of November, 1723: "Agreed, That no New Lodge in or near London without it be Regularly Constituted be Countenanced by the Grand Lodge, Nor the Ma^r or Wardens admitted at the Grand Lodge." The use of the word "New" is worth notice.

"19th of February 172³: And Whereas Some Masons have Mett and formed a Lodge without the Grand Ma^r leave. Agreed, That no Such Person be admitted into Regular Lodges."

Anderson in the 1738 Constitutions interprets this (p. 156), "None who ~~shall~~ form a Stated Lodge without the G. Master's Leave shall be admitted into regular Lodges, till they make Submission and obtain Grace."

The Society did not form a stated Lodge, in fact they did not form a Lodge at all; they intentionally, as I believe, made it an unwritten rule that all the Members must be Freemasons, and they simply performed Masonic ceremonies when they required to do so, in proper Masonic form, only for the purpose of rendering the candidates eligible for membership of the Society.

Of the entries in the Ms. recording the performance of Masonic ceremonies, several facsimiles, including the most important of them, will be found among the plates in the present volume. It is perhaps worthy of remark that when the Society intended to confer the second or third degree, the meeting is called "on business of importance."

I have placed together in a list all those who joined the Society, as being more easy for reference, and have included under each name the Masonic entries occurring in the Manuscript, as well as other notes I have been able to collect. Some of the candidates petition for membership as Brethren, giving in some instances the name of the Lodge to which they belonged, and at times their Masonic rank. Others address the Society as "Gentlemen," and are spoken of as "Mr.," and not

“ Brother ;” on their attendance they are entered as being “ made and admitted according to the Fundamental Constitution and Orders.” The first of these was Thomas Shuttleworth, on the 18th of February, 1725, of whom no other mention is made except his resignation. Oliverson and Guest may be passed over, as they were only elected as being serviceable to the Society, they were, however, “ made and admitted.”

On the 1st of April Thomas Harbin, who was already a Mason, was the next to apply for membership, and as I think the scribe following the form of expression used in the cases of the previous entries, wrongly wrote in the minutes that he was “ made and admitted ;” it should have been entered that he was “ admitted.” On the same day Brother J. O. Eversmann is simply admitted. Two petitions for membership were also received, from Mr. James Murray, who in his application mentions no Lodge, and is called Mr. in the Minutes ; the other from Anthony Corville, a Master Mason, who addresses the Society as Brothers, and is called Brother. Mr. James Murray is “ made and admitted,” and Brother Anthony Corville is “ admitted ” alone, the word “ made ” being omitted. On the 12th of May following “ Brother James Murray was regularly passed Fellow Craft.” The next day a petition for membership was received from Mr. Joshua Draper, who was “ made and admitted,” and in the Minute immediately afterwards, referring to his Token of Distinction, he is called Brother Joshua Draper, a description given to him in later Minutes. On the 22nd of July, 1725, John Ellam petitioned the Society for membership, addressing them as “ Gentlemen,” and on the 5th of August following he was “ made a Free Mason ” by the Society.

It therefore appears almost certain that the word “ made ” used in the above mentioned instances must generally be understood as meaning “ made a Mason,” and that the Society from its commencement did not hesitate at any time to pass candidates through the ceremony of initiation, in order to make them eligible as members of the Society. It must, however, be noted that in only very few instances were these Brothers advanced beyond the first degree. Possibly only sufficient of the members were made Master Masons to carry on the ordinary ceremony of making a Mason.

A Minute of the Grand Lodge of the 21st of November, 1724, orders :

“ That if any Brethren shall meet Irregularly and make Masons at any place within ten miles of London, the persons present at the making (The New Brethren Excepted) shall not be admitted even as Visitors into any Regular Lodge whatsoever Unless they come and make Such Submission to the Grand Ma^r and Grand Lodge as they shall think fit to impose on them."

Anderson (Const. 1738, p. 156,) gives a very similar resolution of an earlier date. New Regulation, "VIII., On 25 April 1723, Every Brother concern'd in making Masons clandestinely, shall not be allow'd to visit any Lodge till he has made due Submission, even tho' the Brothers so made may be allow'd." A regulation not found in the Minutes of the Grand Lodge. And again (Const. 1738, p. 156), gives his interpretation of the Regulation of the 21st of November, 1724 :

"If any Brethren form a Lodge without Leave and shall irregularly make New Brothers, they shall not be admitted into any regular Lodge, no not as Visitors, till they render a good Reason or make due Submission."

There seems to be little doubt that before the "revival" of the Grand Lodge, and in the early years after the year 1717, it was the custom for the proper number of Masons when gathered together, to make Masons if they wished to do so, and to do it by a right which they considered they had always held.

Naturally this custom, calculated to destroy the authority of the Grand Lodge, was one not to be tolerated. An opportunity was in the first place given to offenders, by making submission, to gain forgiveness ; if this was not done, then the laws of the Grand Lodge must be enforced, or not, as seemed most advisable under the particular circumstances.

The Society as has been mentioned, had already made a number of Masons, in some instances privately, simply because no visitors happened to be present. On the 12th of May, 1725, Geminiani was passed Fellow Craft and Master ; and James Murray, who had been made a Mason on the 15th of April by the Society, was passed Fellow Craft.

On the same day Charles Cotton and Papillon Ball were regularly passed Masters, and on the 13th of May Joshua Draper was Made and Admitted, when a visitor, Peter Reffer, who gave trouble in the future, was present.

The next meeting of the Grand Lodge was held on the 20th of May, 1725, when the following appears in the Minutes of that meeting :—

"Ordered, That there be a Lre [letter] wrote to the foll[owing] Brethren to desire them to attend ^{the} ~~the~~ ^{Grand Lodge at the} next Quarterly Communication (Vizt) William Gulston, Coort Knevitt, William Jones, Charles Cotton, Thomas ffisher, Thomas Harbin, and ffrancis Xaviero Geminiani.”

The Grand Lodge was not slow in taking action with respect to these Masonic ceremonies performed by the Society, only seven or eight days having elapsed.

The next meeting of the Society was held on the 27th of May, the only entry being that a visitor was present from the Star and Garter, Covent Garden, no name being given. It is perhaps worth remembering that John Revis was a member of this Lodge, and afterwards a visitor.

The seven Masons summoned to appear at the Grand Lodge were all members of the Queen's Head in Holles Street in 1725. The name of Thomas Fisher may however have been inserted in error, probably for Edmund Squire, another member of the Lodge, as Fisher did not join the Society, although he was a visitor on the 1st April, 1725. It was not until some months after the summons was issued, viz., on the 16th of September, 1725, that another Thomas Fisher was made a Mason and joined the Society. It is worth noting that although Fisher gives the Queen's Head, Holles Street, as his Lodge, he does not appear as a member of that Lodge in the List at the Grand Lodge dated 1725.

As stated, seven of the Founders of the Society were members of this Lodge, but in the Grand Lodge Summons, one of these, Papillon Ball, is omitted, for what reason it is difficult to say.

I think however from the list of those summoned we may fairly conclude that the summons was made to them as members of a regular Lodge, over whom the Grand Lodge would certainly have control.*

Geminiani, who is stated in the Minutes of the Society to be a member of the Queen's Head, although summoned by the Grand Lodge, like Fisher, does not appear in the manuscript List.

The next Quarterly Communication took place on the 24th of June, 1725, but there is no record in the Minutes of that Meeting with regard to Gulston and the other members of the Lodge at the Queen's Head, Holles Street, who were summoned to attend. I cannot believe that the letters shortly to be referred to, written to the Society six months later, on the 8th of December, were the result of the above Minute of the Grand Lodge. It seems to me perfectly certain that these early Minutes are very far from giving a perfect account of all the business transacted at the meetings of the Grand Lodge, very many things which would be of great value to us at the present time were purposely omitted.

On the 5th of August following (1725), it is decided that John Ellam "be made a Free Mason in order to be admitted a Member of this Worshipfull and Highly esteemed Society;" he attended on the same day and was "made a Mason," several visitors being present.

The ordinary entry, as mentioned above, was "made and admitted," now and afterwards, as if to assert the right to make Masons, the fact is stated clearly.

John Revis, afterwards the Grand Secretary, was a visitor to the Society on the 22nd of July, the date entered on John Ellam's petition to be "made and admitted."

A meeting was also held on the 19th of August, when visitors were present, no Masonic ceremony was performed, and the petition of Nathaniel Galpine having been read, "intreating to be made and admitted a Member," it was ordered, "That he Attends this Society on or before this Day Six Weeks."

It is necessary to remember that although it was only on the 29th of July, 1725, that the pedestal and its proper furniture were paid for, it is evident that a difference had arisen between the Society and the maker of the pedestal, Peter Reffer, a member of the Lodge at Tom's Coffee House, Clare Market, and the Queen's Head Lodge, Holles Street. The question of the price to be paid for the pedestal ultimately led to some legal expenses. The fact of the pedestal having been seen by visitors in use by the Society with its furniture, probably from a date earlier than July, it having been ordered in March, 1725, is perhaps worthy of note.

The meeting immediately following that held on the 19th of August, 1725, was held on the 2nd of September, when George Payne, Junior Grand Warden, with two Masters of Lodges, James Latouche and Edward Dowsall, were visitors. The two candidates named for membership of the Society at this meeting were both Masons, one of them, John Ellam, having been made a Mason by the Society as mentioned above, only a few weeks before. They were ordered to attend, "in Order to be properly inducted and admitted as perfect Members thereof," i.e., of the Society.

It will be remembered that all visitors, according to the Rules, must be presented by one member of the Society, and then be approved of by the whole of the members present. The visit of the Grand Warden and his companions was no doubt made with a special object, but it must have been only by the permission of the members of the Society. It must not be forgotten that the Duke of Richmond was then Grand Master, having been elected to that office on the 24th of June, 1724; or that three of the principal founders of the Society were made Masons by the Duke of Richmond, on or about the 22nd of December, soon after he was elected Grand Master, and that two of them were at this time the Censors or "Wardens" of the Society.

A meeting of the Society was held on the 16th of September, when four Masons were made. At the next meeting, held on the 30th of September, 1725, among the payments is entered, "One Pound Seven Shillings, in full for the Book of Constitutions of Free Masons & others," [i.e., and other books]. This, as I have said, was no doubt Anderson's Constitutions, dated 1723, and it is very suggestive to find that it was obtained at this time, when there may have been some discussion with George Payne, the Grand Warden, and others, about the Masonic legality of the actions of the Society; no doubt they were given to understand that these actions were irregular.

It seems likely that about this time, or a little earlier, the well known Ms. entry was made in the 1725 List of Lodges.

"Ditto (Queen's Head) Temple Barr, Philo Musicae et Architecturae Societas, every other Thursday from St. John Baptist."

The sign of the tavern was changed from the Queen's Head to the Apollo on the 20th of October, and the day of meeting was altered on the 10th of November, 1725, from every other Thursday to every Thursday (pp. 79, 81). The entry occurs in what may be considered as the official copy of the first edition of Pine's engraved List of 1725, as it is among those preserved at the Grand Lodge. The second edition of this List must have been issued after the 27th of May, 1725, when the Duke of Richmond was created a Knight of the Bath, as in this second edition that addition is made to his titles, and before the 27th of December, 1725, when he ceased to be the Grand Master. Mr. John Lane points out that the second edition contains Lodges down to September, 1725, after which date it must have been issued. The note, one would think, was made before October the 20th, when the sign of the tavern was changed to the Apollo, and before the second edition of the 1725 List was issued.

The minutes of the Society are continued until the 23rd of March, 1727; had it become a "Regular" Lodge it must have been entered in any list issued up to that date. It does not even appear in Pine's second edition of 1725.

The name of the Society is correctly entered in the Ms. note in the List, and it was so entered, we may fairly suppose, on the information that Masonic ceremonies were carried on, perhaps with the idea that it was really a Lodge, which sooner or later would add its name to the Roll of Lodges. It may be that when the Grand Warden paid his visit, he, in the name of the Grand Master, pointed out to some of his friends* who were present that the Society was acting contrary to the Constitutions of Masonry, and that if they persisted in their contumacy there would be trouble; I have little doubt that the purchase of the 1723 Constitutions resulted from the wish to see if such was the fact. On examination it was of course found that the old Regulations of 1720 contained nothing bearing on the case.

Thus, as already mentioned, at the next meeting held on the 16th of September, 1725, a number of Masons were made.

A meeting of Grand Lodge was held on the 27th of November following, when the Duke of Richmond was still the Grand Master, and George Payne the Junior Grand Warden.

In the minutes of the Society for December the 16th, 1725, occurs the following: "A letter Dat. the 8th Instant from Brother George Payne Junr. Grand Warden directed in form to this Society, inclosing a Letter from the Duke of Richmond, Grand Master, dat. likewise the 8 Inst^{ant} directed to the Presid^{ent} and the rest of the Brethren at the Apollo, in which he Erroneously insists on and Assumes to himself a Pretended Authority to call Our Rt. Worpfull and Highly Esteem'd Society to an account for making Masons irregularly, for which reasons, as well as for want of a Due Regard, Just Esteem, and Omitting to Address himself in proper form to this Rt. Worpfull and Highly Esteem'd Society,

Ordered—

That the Said Letters do lye on the Table."

This letter was written only eleven days after the meeting of the Grand Lodge.

* Payne and Coort Knevitt were both members of the Horn, Westminster.

At the same meeting of the Society, on the 16th of December, another letter was read, dated (9th Dec.) the day after that received from the Grand Lodge. It is from the President William Gulston, presenting to the Society a number of books of music. The last paragraph is worth quoting, as it expresses the feelings of one of the prime movers in the Society, and perhaps those of all the members, with respect to the actions of the Grand Lodge.

“I beg leave to recommend to you the Same Cordial Affection and Unanimity which we have hitherto on all Occasions Shown by which we Shall not only Disappoint and Defeat our weak tho inveterate Enemyes but also grow deservedly in great and reall Esteem, Then.—Philo-Musicæ et Architecturæ Societas Sublimi feriet Sidera Vertice.”

I have already pointed out that the Society had no intention of breaking any portion of the Old Regulation viii., as they had no wish to found a Lodge, although in the rules they seem to have followed some of the customs of Masonry. Possibly the Masonic ceremonies were as carefully performed as was usual in the Lodges of the period, members are recorded as having been “regularly passed Masters,” “Regularly passed Fellow Craft,” and “Regularly passed Fellow Craft and Master.” It is however worth noting that it was not until after the ceremonies had been often gone through that the Society thought fit to obtain a copy of the Book of Constitutions.

It is much to be regretted that the letter of the Grand Master as well as that of the Grand Warden were not given in the Minutes. The entry states that Payne addressed the Society in proper form, and that the Duke of Richmond did not, and “Erroneously insists on and Assumes to himself a Pretended Authority” to call them to account for making Masons irregularly. From this it seems that the Duke, if he did not in his letter address the Society as a new Lodge, which seems not unlikely, attempted to control their proceedings as their Grand Master, a right which they seem to have entirely denied.

On the 23rd of December, 1725, the Society was visited by three members of the “Horn” Lodge, Francis Sorell, the other Grand Warden, Alexander Hardine, Master, and Charles Delafaye. The Society besides having taken no notice of the letters from the Grand Lodge quoted above, had, on the 16th of December, in defiance of them, held another meeting and then made Masons.

It may be that either the letter of the Grand Master or that of the Grand Warden informed the Society of the new Regulations of 1723 and 1724; whether this was so or not, it is fair to presume that the Directors would become acquainted with them, and considered that they were not subject to them. I cannot quite agree with the suggestion that Payne was sent by the Duke of Richmond to find out the real state of the case with regard to the actions and position of the Society, and would suggest that as by Article xviii., Payne could not be again admitted as a visitor, that like Payne, Sorell being one of the Grand Wardens attended the meeting, with the intention of settling the dispute amicably if possible, by bringing the offenders to a proper state of mind. No doubt some report was made by Sorell to the Grand Lodge at the meeting held a few days afterwards, on the 27th of December.

It must be remembered, as mentioned above, that no visitor could be admitted (Article xviii.) unless presented by one ^{Member} of the Society, and ~~was~~ approved by all those present, and then only once a quarter. Both Payne and Sorell must therefore have made their visits with the consent of the members, in the usual form, which I think shows that the Society either considered that nothing was to be feared from a series of visits from the Grand Wardens, or, which seems unlikely, were careless as to the result of their actions. Had Payne and Sorell presented themselves as officers of the Grand Lodge and asked or demanded admittance, it appears to me more than likely that their request would have been refused.

Whatever was the result of the letters and visits, no record remains, but I cannot agree with Gould that nothing could be done. It must not be overlooked that although the Grand Lodge, in these early days, might not have the power of compelling the Society to become a regular Lodge, or of preventing Masonic ceremonies being performed at the meetings, it had the power to call to account the members of any of the regular Lodges on its list for associating together out of the Lodge, and defiantly breaking the regulations.

Such an action may have met with little sympathy from some of the older Masons, and it is quite true that throughout the existence of the Society, a little over two years, no less than (about) forty-seven Masons, members of various Lodges in London, were received as visitors. It must however also be pointed out that forty-two of these were received up to the end of the year 1725, and that the remaining five or more were spread over the years 1726 (3 or more) and 1727 (2). Of these five or more visitors, only one name that of William Grant, who became a member of the Society, is recorded. He was the only Mason not made by the Society who became a member, during the years 1726 and 1727. (A visitor, 27th October; member, 22nd and 29th December, 1726.)

On the 16th of February, 1727, five candidates, all of whom are described as "Brothers," were elected probationary members of the Society, but although five other meetings are recorded, no mention is made of any of these brethren having been properly inducted and made members, according to the usual custom.

It is also worthy of notice that beginning in the early part of the year 1726, no less than nine members, some of whom had been made Masons by the Society, having taken no notice of the usual notices to attend, were ultimately expelled.

Gould is of opinion that such men as Dr. Rawlinson, John Jesse and Fotherly Baker, who [at a later period] were members of the same Lodge as the prime mover in the Society William Gulston, were not likely to join in fellowship with any person whose Masonic record would not bear investigation. He adds, "It is reasonably clear that down at least to 1725, and perhaps later, the bonds of discipline, so recently forged, were unequal to the strain which was imposed upon them. Confidence is a plant of slow growth, and even were evidence wanting to confirm the belief that the 'beneficent despotism,' which arose out of the unconditional surrender of their inherent privileges by four private Lodges, was not submitted to without resistance by the Craft at large—from the nature of things, no other conclusion could be adopted." (Hist. of Free Masonry, vol. ii., p. 381).

The manner in which the letters of the Grand Master and Grand Warden were treated shows very clearly, I think, that whatever rights may have been surrendered to the Grand Lodge on its foundation, it was not considered, by some at least, that the power of making Masons in proper form had been included.

As will be seen from the List of the Lodges mentioned in this Ms., there were three, the names of which do not appear in any of the known Lists of "Regular Lodges;" and they were no doubt like others, of which no record has survived, all making Masons and performing Masonic ceremonies during the early period of the Grand Lodge. Some of these never gave in their allegiance, and died a natural death, or their members were absorbed into other Lodges. Their position was recognised by the Grand Lodge of early times, as seems to be shown by the regulations and minutes quoted above, which refer to new Lodges.

Payne's first Regulation of 1720, printed in the Constitutions dated 1723, might be taken as bearing on the subject: "The Grand Master or his Deputy hath Authority and Right, not only to be present in any true Lodge, but also to preside wherever he is, with the Master of the Lodge on his Left-hand," etc.

On the 21st of July, 1726, it is recorded that "The Masons old Constitutions" had been purchased, "being wanted by the Society." I think the Old Constitutions here mentioned must be the copy of the manuscript Constitutions printed by J. Roberts in 1722, though it is difficult to explain for what reason it was "wanted by the Society." I can only suggest that being cut adrift from the Grand Lodge and its rules, the Society determined to continue the performance of Masonic ceremonies, and if a Book of the Constitutions of Masonry was necessary, or as they put it "wanted," they decided that it should be the one originally used by the old Masons, and not that new book compiled by Anderson for the Grand Lodge.

At the same time they ordered a copy of the "Fundamental Constitutions and Orders" to be obtained. These referred entirely to the Musical Society, and were therefore to be copied from their own book of Records. With copies of the Old Masonic Constitutions and their own rules, no doubt the Directors considered that they were in possession of all that was "wanted."

The second of the Ms. Lists preserved in the Grand Lodge is stated to be "A List of the Regular Constituted Lodges together with the Names of the Masters and Wardens and Members of Each Lodge as by Account deliver'd at a Quarterly Communication held 27th Novem^rber 1725."

As Mr. John Lane points out, additions were made to this list at a later date, I am inclined to think that the following entry, the fifty-sixth, is not one of the earliest.*

QUEEN'S HEAD IN HOLLIS STREET.

Mr ANTH: CORVILLE		THO HARBIN
CHA: COTTON Esq ^r		THO: MARSHALL
WM: GULSTON		PETER REFFER

* Thomas Bradbury was the Master of the Lodge on the 15th of December, 1724; and Coort Knevitt and William Jones were only made Masons on the 22nd of December, 1724, and between this date and the 18th February, 1725, Gulston, Knevitt and Jones were Passed Masters (Minutes pp. 7-8).

† We learn from the Philo-Musicæ Ms. that both Geminiani and Fisher were members of this Lodge.

To these may be added the name of PHILIP HORDERN, who was a visitor, from the Lodge at the Queen's Head, on the 16th of December, 1725.

Seventeen members in all, of which no less than eleven, Coort Knevitt, William Jones, Anthony Corville, Charles Cotton, William Gulston, Papillon Ball, Edw. [Edmond] Squire, Thomas Harbin, Thomas Marshall, F. X. Geminiani, and Thomas Fisher, were members of the Society before May, 1725, another, Edw. Bedford, joined 30th September, 1725, and one, Richard Cock or Cox, petitioned to be a member on the 16th of February, 1727. (Two of them, Edmund Squire and Edward Bedford, were expelled the Society in 1726, and one, Thomas Marshall, resigned in that year.)

The only members of the Lodge who did not join the Society were William Wilton and Philip Horder, whose names appear in no other list; Peter Reffer, with whom the Society had legal proceedings; and Thomas Gilbert, who was a member of Reffer's Lodge at Tom's Coffee House. Reffer supplied the Society with the pedestal and Gilbert the furniture for it.

This put in other and plainer language means that of a regular Lodge, consisting of seventeen members, owing obedience to the Grand Lodge, no less than eleven acted in open defiance to the orders of the superior power; six of them having as far as the Grand Lodge Minutes and the Records of the Society tell us at an earlier time, taken no notice of a special summons to attend a Quarterly Communication. I cannot but think that such actions could only result in the erasure and extinction as "Regular" of the Lodge held at the Queen's Head in Holles Street, although I very much doubt if its members became Masonic outlaws.

The Lodge, as I have said, is found in the 1725 Ms. List, in the fifty-sixth place; it appears also in both editions of Pine's engraved List of 1725, in the fifty-seventh and the fifty-sixth place. It has not been identified in any later List, and it is unfortunate that no Lists are extant for the years 1726-7-8. The Queen's Head does not appear in the List of 1729, the first List giving the dates of the constitution of the Lodges, and as all the Lodges in that List have been identified with Lodges in the 1725 Lists to a higher number than the Queen's Head would occupy, it having been founded before 1724, it is only fair to conclude that the Lodge ceased to exist, at least as a "Regular" Lodge, between the years 1725 and 1729, probably in or about 1726-27.

If it is conceded, from the fact that the Minutes of the Society end abruptly in 1727, and have not been signed for some time previously, that it was broken up at about that date, it would not be difficult to understand that the evil being removed, if the remaining members or any portion of them "made submission" to the Grand Lodge, they would after a time be forgiven. Under such circumstances, they would naturally join some Lodge or Lodges, and their names would be recorded.

As will be seen by reference to the List of the members of the Society, there were in all thirty-nine members, of whom the following eighteen were made Masons by the Society :

- | | |
|---------------------------------|---------------------------|
| 9. Joseph Murden, | 24. Thomas Fisher, Junr., |
| 11. Thomas Shuttleworth, Junr., | 25. Francis Galpine, |
| 12. John Ellam, | 26. Thomas Barton, |
| 14. James Murray, | 28. William Wharam, |
| 17. Joshua Draper, | 29. James Brotherton, |
| 18. Thomas Oliverson, | 30. John Cock, |
| 19. John Guest, | 32. Thomas Reed, |
| 22. Edward Bedford, | 33. Voisin Humphreys, |
| 23. Nathaniel Galpine, | 34. James Bayne. |

Four members, Thomas Marshall, Thomas Shuttleworth, James Murray, and Nathaniel Galpine, resigned ; ten, Edmund Squire, J. O. Eversman, Edward Bedford, Thomas Fisher, Junr., Thomas Barton, James Brotherton, John Cock, John Atwood, Thomas Reed, and Voisin Humphreys, were expelled ; three, Thomas Oliverson, John Guest, and James Bayne, were only made in order that they might be serviceable ; one, William Wharam, died ; three, Thomas Harbin, James Parmentier, Senr., and James Parmentier, Junr., belonged to Lodges ; and nine, Isaac Thuret, Charles Cotton, Joseph Murden, F. X. Geminiani, John Ellam, Ant. Corville, Joshua Draper, Francis Galpine, and George Markham, of whom three, John Ellam, Joshua Draper and Francis Galpine, were made Masons by the Society, are not found in the 1730 list of the members of Lodges.* These added together number thirty ; if this number be deducted from the total number of members, the remainder is nine.

* I need hardly mention that the various lists of the Members of Lodges, preserved at the Grand Lodge, do not include the Members of all the Lodges, some pages being blank. For the present argument this is of little consequence.

Through the kindness of Dr. Chetwode Crawley, who gave me copies of the lists of members entered in the Rawlinson Ms. List of Lodges, I am enabled to compare the names in that list of the St. Paul's Head, Ludgate Street, in 1733-4, and the list of the members of the same Lodge as furnished by the Grand Lodge Ms. List of 1730-32. The comparison shows that between the year in which the Grand Lodge List was written and the date of the Rawlinson Ms. List, Gulston, Knevett, Jones, Papillon Ball and Grant, had become members of the Lodge at St. Paul's Head, Ludgate Street; Mason, Cock, Samson and Thomas, four out of the five Masons who were admitted members of the Musical Society, immediately before the minutes close were already members of that Lodge (Grand Lodge Ms. List, 1730-32).

These names, nine in number, if added to the thirty already accounted for, make up the full number of the members of the Philo Musicæ Society—thirty-nine.

It is only natural to suppose that, as in the 1725 Grand Lodge List, the names of Gulston, Knevett, Jones, and Papillon Ball occur, among the members of the Queen's Head, in Holles Street, and as this Lodge finds no place in the 1729 List it had then ceased to exist, and it became necessary for the remnant of the Musical Society to seek a new Lodge; also that the Lodge chosen was that held at the St. Paul's Head, Ludgate Street, in which they already had some friends, and probably sympathizers.

I have not overlooked the fact that such an explanation leaves the period of several years unaccounted for in the Masonic lives of the prime movers in the Society: many possibilities might be suggested to bridge over the time: we do not know with certainty at what date the Society ceased to exist: Gulston and his friends had already offended against the laws of the Grand Lodge, and although the Lodge at the Queen's Head, Holles Street, was removed from the Official Lists, we do not know how far the contumacy was continued in the Lodge. I have already called attention to the fact that the names of Gulston and the others do not appear in the 1730 Ms. List at the Grand Lodge which Mr. John Lane shows was compiled in the years 1731-1732, though they are found in the Rawlinson Ms. List of 1733-4; where the name of William Gulston occupies the first place, William Jones the second, and Papillon Ball the fourth. In the third place is the name of Benjamin Wellington, who also seems to have been a new member. His name is in the list of the Lodge at the Leg Tavern, Fleet Street, in the Ms. List of 1725-28. The Lodge also occurs in Pine's second edition of the 1725 List, but is not in that of the year 1729. He was not a member of the St. Paul's Head according to the 1730 Ms. List. Perhaps his name should have been entered as a Visitor to the Society in 1726 and 1727. (See List page liv.)

The Records of the Musical Society, as will be seen, end abruptly on the 23rd of March, 1726-27; the last order being to the effect that on Thursday, the 30th instant, the Society shall meet in order to elect the new officers, as usual.

In accordance with the Order of the 19th of January, 1725-26, that the entries should be made in the Book of Records, "and not longer [be] omitted or Postpon'd than the termination of each Presidentship," i.e., three months, it will be found that the records have been written up since the transfer of the money in the Public Treasury, after the election of the officers on the 29th of December, 1726. None of them have been signed.

The entries would be made by the order of the Registrar, William Gulston, whose last attendance, it may be added, is recorded on the 22nd of December, 1726. The writing of the unsigned minutes is by the same hand as many of the previous pages, and at the last meeting Gulston's fee was ordered to be paid.

There is no evidence in these minutes that the break up of the Society was meditated, indeed they would point to quite a different conclusion although the number of the members was much reduced. It must, however, be remarked that for some little time before December, 1726, the attendance of the Directors had been far from regular, which might be taken as shewing pressure from without, a gradual weakness, or want of interest in the Society.

Had the future meetings been held with any amount of regularity, it is only natural to suppose that the minutes of the last eleven meetings would have been signed, and on considering the last records entered, I cannot but believe that some sudden catastrophe brought the Society to an end.

Gulston in his letter of the 9th of December, 1725, uses a line from the first Ode of Ovid, I may now perhaps take from a higher authority, a more appropriate quotation:—

Et suspensus crepuit medius.

LIST OF MEMBERS.

[NOTE.—In writing of the Ms. Lists preserved at the Grand Lodge, as of 1723, 1725 and 1730, I have only done so to prevent confusion, as these are the dates given at the head of the lists.]

- 1.—Mr. WILLIAM GULSTON, Merchant. Founder. Director No. 1, elected President on the 18th February, 1724-25, which office he retained until the 30th December, 1725. Elected "Register" on the 19th January, 1725-26, at a salary of ten guineas a year, in which capacity he seems to have acted from the commencement of the Society; Senior Censor 21st July to 29th September, 1726.
- A member of the Queen's Head, Holles Street, and was there made a Mason on the 15th of December, 1724, "In a Just and Perfect Lodge," by Mr. Thomas Bradbury, Master of the said Lodge; he was "Regularly Pass'd Master" in the same Lodge before the 18th February, 1724-25. In the 1725 Ms. List of the Members at the Grand Lodge his name occupies the fifth place; and his name is the first in the List in the Rawlinson Ms. of the Members of the Lodge at the St. Paul's Head, Ludgate Street, where he is described as a Wine Merchant.
- Mr. Bradbury is not among the members in the Grand Lodge List of about 1725, but the name of Thomas Bradbury occurs among the members of the Lodge at the Rose and Crown, King Street, Westminster.
- Francis Gulston, Esq., was a member of the Bear and Harrow in the Butcher Row about 1732 (1730 List Ms.) William Gulston, of Red Lyon Street, died 1737. (Gent. Mag.)
- 2.—COORT KNEVIT, Esquire. Founder. Director No. 2. Senior Censor from the 18th February, 1724-25, to the 30th December, 1725, when he was elected President, which office he held until the 21st of July, 1726; on the 29th of September, in the same year, he was again elected Senior Censor, retaining this position to the end of the minutes (23rd March, 1726-27).
- The name is sometimes written Nevett, or Nevitt. Member of the Lodge at the Queen's Head, Holles Street. Made a Mason on the 22nd December, 1724, by His Grace the Duke of Richmond, G.M., "who then Constituted the Lodge." "Regularly Pass'd Master" at the Queen's Head, Holles Street, before the 18th February, 1724-25.
- He was a member of the Horn, Westminster (G. Lo. Ms. List 1725), and was the Master of the Queen's Head, Holles Street, about 1725 (Ib.) His name also appears among the members of the St. Paul's Head, Ludgate Street, in the Rawlinson Ms. List (1733-34), where he is described as Esquire.
- Perhaps connected with Mr. Charles Knyvett, an alto singer, the conductor of the concerts of ancient music.
- 3.—Mr. WILLIAM JONES, Gentleman. Founder. Director No. 3. Junior Censor from the 18th of February, 1724-25, to the 30th December, 1725, when he was elected Senior Censor, and on the 21st July, 1726, took the office of President. He was re-elected on the 29th of September and 29th of December, 1726, retaining that position to the end of the minutes (23rd March 1726-27).

A member of the Lodge at the Queen's Head, Holles Street. Made a Mason on the 22nd December, 1724, by His Grace the Duke of Richmond, G.M., "who then Constituted the Lodge." "Regularly Pass'd Master" at the Queen's Head, Holles Street, before the 18th of February, 1724-25. He was S.W. of this Lodge about 1725 (G. Lo. Ms. List). The same name appears in the List of the Vine Tavern, Holborn, about 1730 (Ib.), and in that of the St Paul's Head, Ludgate Street, in the Rawlinson Ms. List of 1733-4, where he is called an Apothecary.

- 4.—EDMUND SQUIRE, Gentleman. Founder. Director No. 4. Apparently from his signature he was fairly advanced in years, and although at first a regular attendant at the meetings, never held any office but that of a Director. Delivered up his Token of Distinction on the 1st of December, 1726. Having failed to fulfil his promises or pay his fees (15th October, 1726), notwithstanding repeated indulgence (3rd November, 10th November, 1st December) from the other Directors, he was expelled the Society on the 22nd of December, 1726. He was succeeded in the Directorship by ISAAC THURET.

EDMUND SQUIRE was a member of the Lodge at the Queen's Head, Holles Street, and there made a Mason "In a Just and Perfect Lodge" on the 15th December, 1724, by Mr. Thomas Bradbury, Master; he was "Regularly Pass'd Master" at the same place before the 18th February, 1724-25. "Edw." Squire is entered as a member of this Lodge in the Ms. List of about 1725 at the Grand Lodge. John Squire was a member of the Dolphin in Tower Street about 1723 and 1725 (G. Lo. Ms. Lists). William Squire, Operative Mason, was a member of the Lodge held at the Bricklayers' Arms, in the Barbican, now removed to the Rose Tavern, Cheapside. (Rawl. Ms. List.)

- 5.—ISAAC THURET. Director No. 4. His petition having been accepted on the 16th of December, 1725, then a Probationary Member. On the 16th December, 1725, he was summoned to attend, but his Induction was suspended for diverse reasons; again summoned 7th July, 1726. He was elected on the 23rd of March, 1726-27, to succeed Edmund Squire as Director No. 4, and ordered to attend on the 30th March in order to be inducted and invested; no minute of a meeting held on that day is preserved in the Book of Records. A member of the Lodge Solomon's Temple, Hemming's Row (p. 92), of which Dr. Desaguliers was the Master (Ms. List G. Lo., 1725). When a visitor to the Philo-Musicæ Society on the 14th of October, 1725, he gives "y^e Temple of Solomon" as the Lodge to which he belonged.

- 6.—CHARLES COTTON, Esquire. Founder. Director No. 5. He acted in the law affairs of the Society (pp. 151, 157). On the 5th January, 1726-27, he was summoned to attend the next Publick Meeting and to return his Token of Distinction, and, not appearing, again on the 12th of January; in reply to these on the 23rd March, 1726-27, he deputed the President to act for him. The minutes cease on the 23rd of March, 1727. He held no other office in the Society. A member of the Lodge at the Queen's Head, Holles Street. Made a Mason immediately after the 22nd December, 1724 by the Duke of Richmond, G.M. Passed Fellow Craft in a Lodge "consisting of Masters sufficient for that purpose," in which Mr. William Gulston acted as Senior Warden, held by some of the intended founders of the Philo-Musicæ Society, on the 18th of February, 1724-25; and "Regularly Passed Master" by the same Society, on the 12th of May, 1725. His name occupies the fourth place in the list of members of the Lodge held at the Queen's Head in Holles Street (Ms. List, G. Lo., about 1725).

- 7.—E. PAPILLON BALL, Gentleman. Founder. Director No. 6. On the 30th December, 1725, he was elected Junior Censor; re-elected 31st March, 21st July, 29th September, and 29th December, 1726, the last election recorded in the minutes.
A member of the Lodge at the Queen's Head, Holles Street. Made a Mason on the 1st February, 1724-25. Passed Fellow Craft in a Lodge "consisting of Masters sufficient for that purpose," held by some of the intended founders of the Philo-Musicæ Society, in the performance of which Mr. William Gulston acted as Senior Warden, on the 18th of February, 1724-25." "Regularly passed Master" by the Philo-Musicæ Society on the 12th of May, 1725. He was a member of the Queen's Head in Holles Street (1725 Ms. List, G. Lo.) His name occurs fourth in the list of members of the Lodge held at St. Paul's Head, Ludgate Street (Rawlinson Ms. List, 1733-34), where he is described as a West India Merchant. Papillon Ball, Director of the Royal Exchange Assurance Office, died 1743.—(Gent. Magazine, p. 163.)
- 8.—THOMAS MARSHALL, Gentleman. Founder. Director No. 7. He never held any other office in the Society. Finding it inconvenient to attend the Society, he resigned his Token of Distinction on the 31st March, 1726.
JOSEPH MURDEN, Esquire, succeeded him in the Directorship.
THOMAS MARSHALL was made a Mason at the George, in Long Acre, "sometime before" the 18th February, 1724-25; Passed Fellow Craft in a Lodge "consisting of Masters sufficient for that purpose," held by some of the intended founders of the Philo-Musicæ Society; in the performance of which Mr. William Gulston acted as Senior Warden on the 18th of February, 1724-25. He was a member of the Lodge held at the Queen's Head, in Holles Street, about 1725. (G. Lodge Ms. List.)
Among the members of the Lodge held at the Sash and Cocoa Tree, Moore Fields, occurs Marishall. (Rawl. Ms. List, 1733-34). It may be pointed out that this name occupies the fifteenth place, and that no description is added to any of the fifteen names.
- 9.—JOSEPH MURDEN, Esquire. Director No. 7. Petitioned for membership on the 23rd of June, 1726. Summoned on the 7th of July, 1726; he attended and was Inducted and properly admitted a member on the 21st July, 1726. Chosen on the 15th of September to occupy the place of Director No. 7, Mr. Thomas Marshall having resigned; invested on the 29th of September, 1726.
He was made a Mason by the Philo-Musicæ Society on the 23rd of June, 1726.
William Murden, Esq., was a member of the Vine Tavern, Holborn, about 1730 (Ms. List G. Lo.) and Jeremiah of the Lodge at St. Paul's Head, Ludgate Street (Rawl. Ms. List, 1733-34) when he is styled Esquire.
- 10.—SIGNOR FRANCESCO XAUERIO GEMINIANI. (See Introd., p. xi.) Founder. Director No. 8. Was elected at the commencement of the Society Sole and Perpetual Director of all the Musical Performances, and continued to perform the duties of the office as far as the minutes of the Lodge are recorded.
A member of the Lodge at the Queen's Head, Holles Street. He was made a Mason on the 1st February, 1724-25; "regularly Passed fellow Craft & Master" by the Philo-Musicæ Society on the 12th May, 1725. His name does not appear in any of the Lists extant of members of Lodges, although in the minutes, page 6, he is stated, with six of the other founders, to have been a member of the Lodge at the Queen's Head, Holles Street, in February, 1725.

- 11.—THOMAS SHUTTLEWORTH, Junior. Petitioned, and was made and admitted a member as Director No. 9 on the 18th of February, 1724-25; he held no other office. His resignation on account of business that would prevent his attending the Meetings, is entered on the 29th September, 1726.

JOHN ELLAM was elected in his place as Director No. 9.

THOMAS SHUTTLEWORTH was most probably a violinist, and one of the three sons of Thomas Shuttleworth, senior, who taught the harpsichord, and supported himself by copying Corelli's music, before it was printed in England; he was one of the best known copyists, and the Society employed him to write music. Obadiah Shuttleworth, also a violinist, was another of the sons, who performed with his brothers and sister at the concerts held at his father's house in Spitalfields.

The names of John (1725, 1730), John junior (1723, 1725), and Obadiah Shuttleworth (1730) appear in the Lists, but not Thomas.

- 12.—JOHN ELLAM. Director No. 9. Petitioned the Society on the 22nd July, 1725 and was inducted and properly admitted a member on the 30th September, 1725; was elected on the 22nd of December, 1726, to occupy the place of Thomas Shuttleworth, junior, as Director No. 9, and having attended on the 5th of January, 1726-27, was "invested with the Dignities and Token of distinction of Bro^r. Thomas Shuttleworth, late a Director of this Society." On the 5th of August, 1725, it was resolved "that he [Ellam] be made a Free Mason in Order to be admitted a Member of this Worshipfull and Highly Esteem'd Society." On the same day he attended "and was made a Mason." His name does not appear in the Lists.

- 13.—THOMAS HARBIN, Stationer. Director No. 10. Petitioned and was made* and admitted on the 1st of April, 1725. He was summoned on the 5th of January, 1726-27, and in reply deputed William Gulston to act for him (12th January, 1726-27). He bound and lettered some of the music presented, and supplied music paper. He was a Stationer in the Strand, famous for his shining black ink. He died November the 18th, 1737.

Described as a Master Mason and a member of the Rose and Crown Lodge in Westminster, and the Queen's Head, Holles Street, 1st April, 1725 (cf. Ms. List, 1725, G. Lo.).

He was also a member of the Rummer at Charing Cross (1730 List).

Thomas Harbin is entered as Master of the Lodge, occupying the 18th place in the List of Masters and Wardens given in the book of Constitutions of 1723. This Lodge has been identified by Mr. John Lane as the one meeting at the Rose and Crown in King Street, Westminster,

- 14.—JAMES MURRAY, Gentleman. Director No. 11. Petitioned April the 7th, and was made and admitted on the 15th April, 1725. He resigned on the 21st of July, 1726, as he was only able to remain in London two months out of the twelve.

* An error of the Clerk who copied out the Minutes; Harbin was already a Mason, see Introduction, p. xxvii, with respect to the wording "made and admitted."

WILLIAM GRANT, Esquire, succeeded him as Director No. 11.

JAMES MURRAY was on the 12th of May, 1725, "Regularly passed Fellow Craft" by the Philo-Musicæ Society. His name does not appear in any of the extant lists of members of Lodges.

- 15.—WILLIAM GRANT, Esquire. Director No. 11. Petitioned for membership on the 22nd December, 1726, and was then admitted a Probationary Member, and on the same day elected a Nominal Director. He attended on the 29th of December, "and was inducted and invested with the Dignities and Token of distinction of Brother James Murray, late a Director of this Society."
- When he visited the Philo-Musicæ Society on the 27th October, 1726, he is entered as of the Lodge held at the Half Moon Tavern, Cheapside. His name appears among the members of the Lodge held at the St. Paul's Head, Ludgate Street, where he is described as Attorney at Law, in the Rawlinson Ms. List of 1733-1734.
- 16.—ANTHONY CORVILLE, Gentleman. Director No. 12. Petitioned on the 7th, and was admitted on the 15th of April, 1725. He was summoned for offences 29th December, 1726, 5th January, 1726-27, and attended on the 12th of January, 1726-27, "and made such satisfaction as was required for his misbehaviour."
- Described himself as a Master Mason, and member of the Queen's Head, Holles Street, in his petition of the 7th April, 1725; in the 1725 Ms. List, G. Lo., his name occupies the place of Junior Warden of that Lodge.
- 17.—JOSHUA DRAPER, Gentleman. Director No. 13. Petitioned on the 29th of April, and was made and admitted on the 13th of May, 1725. On the 16th of February, 1726-27, he resigned, owing to the absolute necessity of "his little affairs and Buildings now depending," at West Harling, in Norfolk, requiring his constant attendance. On the 23rd of March, 1726-27, he was re-admitted, on a rule allowing indulgence to those residing twenty miles from London. In his petition he addresses the Society as "Gentlemen." His name does not appear in the Lists. He was made a Mason as above.
- 18.—THOMAS OLIVERSON, petitioned, and was made and admitted on the 18th of February, 1724-25, "in the Capacity only of being Serviceable to it" [the Society], "claiming thereby no right or Privilege to act or direct in any affair relating to the society." He was the landlord of the Queen's Head, near Temple Bar, at which house the Society was founded, and afterwards met. In respect to the "R^t Worshipful and highly Esteem'd Society" he put up a new sign "painted by our well beloved Brother James Parmentier, viz^t., the Apollo," on the 20th of October, 1725 (see Minute of the 28th October, page 79). The tavern was afterwards known as The Apollo (p. 138). His name does not appear in the Lists.
- 19.—JOHN GUEST, petitioned, and was made and admitted on the 18th February, 1724-25, on the same terms as Thomas Oliveron, therefore probably the waiter, or some kind of serving brother. His name does not appear in the Lists.
- 20.—J. O. EVERSMAAN, requested to be made a member "as No. 14," and was "admitted" on the 1st of April, 1725. Having been guilty of "irregularities" (6th January, 1725-6), without making "Proper Satisfaction," he was expelled the Society on the 3rd of February, 1725-26.

He addresses the Philo-Musicæ Society as "Gentlemen and Brothers," in his petition for membership, he was therefore already a Mason. John Eversmann was a member of the Lodge at Dick's Coffee House, in the Strand, and of that at the Rose Tavern, without Temple Bar, about 1725 and 1730. (G. Lo. Ms. Lists).

- 21.—JAMES PARMENTIER, Artist, a visitor on the 19th of August, 1725; petitioned on the 2nd of September, and was inducted and properly admitted a member on the 30th September following. He was a history and portrait painter. Born in France in 1658, he came to London in 1676, and was employed by La Fosse at Montague House. William III. sent him to Holland to assist in ornamenting the Palace at Loo; he quarrelled with the surveyor, left, returned to England, and not finding employment in London, went to Yorkshire, where he painted portraits and historical works. He returned to and settled in London in 1721, where he died December 2nd, 1730, and was buried in the Church of St. Paul, Covent Garden. He painted the new sign for the Queen's Head, by which the house became the Apollo. (See No. 18).
When a visitor on the 19th of August, 1725, he is entered as of the Greyhound Tavern, Fleet Street; in the 1723 Ms. at the G. Lodge he is recorded as a member of this Lodge; in the 1725 List, of the Globe Tavern in Fleet Street; and of Solomon's Temple, Hemming's Row; and of the Blew Posts in Deveraux Court. Either of these may refer to James Parmentier, junior (No. 27).
- 22.—MR. EDWARD BEDFORD petitioned 13th September, and was inducted and properly admitted a member on the 30th of September, 1725; summoned (17th February, 1725-26), to attend, and, not attending, was expelled as an "unworthy member" on the 10th, 17th of March, 1725-26. Made a Mason by the Philo-Musicæ Society on the 16th of September, 1725.
His name appears in the Ms. List at the G. Lodge of about 1725, as a member of the Queen's Head, in Holles Street. Having been made a Mason by the Society, he appears to have joined a Lodge.
- 23.—MR. NATHANIEL GALPINE petitioned on the 17th of August, and was inducted and properly admitted a member on the 30th of September, 1725, and resigned on going to "fforeign parts," on the 17th of November, 1726. Made a Free Mason by the Philo-Musicæ Society on the 16th September, 1725. His name does not appear in the Lists.
- 24.—THOMAS FISHER petitioned on the 13th of September, and was inducted and properly admitted a member on the 30th of September, 1725. He was (17th February, 1725-26) summoned to attend, and, not attending, was expelled as an "unworthy" member on the 10th, 17th of March, 1725-26. He supplied the furniture for the pedestal.
He was made a Free Mason by the Philo-Musicæ Society on the 16th September, 1725.
A Thomas Fisher is entered as the Junior Warden in the 1723 Ms. List at the G. Lodge of the members of the Lodge at Ben's Coffee House, in New Road.
On the 1st of April and the 30th of September, 1725, a visitor, Thomas Fisher, is entered as of the Queen's Head, Holles Street, "a Master," but in the Ms. List at the G. Lodge of about 1725, his name does not appear. The names of Mr. Fisher, senior and junior, are given in the same list under the Rummer, in Henrietta Street.

- 25.—Mr. FRANCIS GALPINE petitioned the 13th of September, and was inducted and properly admitted a member on the 30th of September, 1725. He was to contract for the building of a ship, of which, when completed, he was to "goe Commandr," (p. 83).
Made a Mason by the Philo-Musicæ Society on the 16th September, 1725. His name does not appear in the Lists.
- 26.—THOMAS BARTON petitioned to be made a member on the 27th of September, 1725. In order (30th September) that this might be accepted, on the 14th of October he attended and was "made a Free Mason" by the Philo-Musicæ Society. Although summoned (18th November) to the meeting of the 2nd of December, 1725, his "Induction" was suspended at that meeting. When summoned by order of the 16th of December, he attended on the 30th of December, when his Induction was again suspended for "Diverse Reasons." Having returned no reply to the later summons to attend (31st March, 1726), he was expelled (18th August) on the 15th of September, 1726. His name does not occur in the Lists of Masons.
- 27.—JAMES PARMENTIER, junior, petitioned to be made a member on the 14th of October, 1725; was ordered on the 18th of November to attend on the 2nd of December, but his "Induction" was, on that day, suspended, like that of Thomas Barton, and although he, with others, attended in answer to a summons of the 16th of December, 1725, on the 30th of December the order was again suspended "for Diverse Reasons," and his name does not occur again.
He is simply called James Parmentier, junior, at the time of his petition for membership (p. 75), when summoned to be admitted a perfect member (p. 83), as also when the order for his Induction was suspended (p. 85), he is called Brother. His name may occur in the Lists of Masons. (See No. 22).
- 28.—Mr. WILLIAM WHARAM petitioned for membership on the 16th of December, 1725, and on the same day attended and was made a Mason by the Philo-Musicæ Society. Although in attendance on the 30th December, in answer to the summons, the order for his "Induction" was suspended; again summoned by an order of the 16th of December, 1725, he attended on the 30th December, when for "Diverse Reasons" his Induction was again suspended. The minute of the 3rd of March, 1725-26, records that William Wharam was dead.
John Wharum, Mariner, is the 25th name on the Ms. List of the Bricklayers Arms in Barbican, now removed to the Rose Tavern, in Cheapside. (Rawl. Mss., 1733-34.)
- 29.—Mr. JAMES BROTHERTON petitioned for membership on the 16th of December, 1725, and on the same day was made a Mason by the Philo-Musicæ Society. On the 16th December he was summoned, and attended on the 30th of December, when, for "Diverse Reasons," his "Induction" was suspended. He was again (17th February, 1725-26), summoned to attend, and, not attending, was expelled "for his Scandalous and Unbrotherly Actions" on the 10th, 17th March, 1725-26.
On the 30th of September, 1725, James Brotherton gives a receipt for his father, John Brotherton, for books, and on the 17th of March, 1725-26, a receipt for gilding and lettering some Music Books and making a Music Case is given by James Brotherton. John, the father, was one of the well-known bookbinders of the period.
A John Brotherton was a member of the Crown at Acton, about 1725. (G. Lodge Ms. List.)

- 35.—Mr. GEORGE MARKHAM is entered as the Senior Warden of the Lodge held at the Sun, south side of St. Paul's, in the Ms. List of about 1725.
- 36.—Mr. RICHARD MASON, when a visitor to the Philo-Musicæ Society, on the 5th of August, 1725, is entered as "late Lodge at the Globe in Queen Street." His name appears among the members of the Lodge held at St. Paul's Head, in Ludgate Street, in the Ms. List of 1730. In the copy in the Rawlinson Ms. List of the same Lodge he is styled Cabinet Maker.
- 37.—Mr. RICHARD COCK is the fourth on the List of Members of the St. Paul's Head in Ludgate Street, about 1730. In the Rawlinson Ms. List of the same Lodge his name occupies the sixth place, and he is entered as a Plumber.
- 38.—Mr. JOSEPH SAMPSON was also a member of the St. Paul's Head in Ludgate Street, according to the Ms. List of about 1730; and in the Rawlinson Ms. copy of the same he is fifth on the list, and is described as an Haberdasher.
- 39.—Mr. JOHN THOMAS was a member, according to the Ms. List of about 1730, of the Lodge at the Devil Tavern, within Temple Bar; of the Swan on Fishstreet Hill, and he is the fifth on the List of the Members of the St. Paul's Head in Ludgate Street, of the same date. He is the seventh on the Rawlinson Ms. copy of this List, where he is styled Banker. The name also appears in the List of about 1730, among the members of the Lodge held at Daniel's Coffee House, in Lombard Street.

Anderson, in the Constitutions of 1738 (p. 118), places him in the Senior Grand Warden's place.
- 23.—1725. Sept. 2.—JAMES LATOUCHE, Master of the Red Lion, Tottenh[am Court Road] and Warden Senior of the Fr[ench] Lodg[e]. He is entered as a member of the Red Lyon in the 1725 List, and the second "Surveillant" of the Solomon's Temple, Hemmings Row, a Lodge composed principally of Frenchmen.
- 24.—1725. Sept. 2.—EDWARD DOWSALL, a Master, no Lodge given. His name does not appear in the Lists.
- 25.—1725. Sept. 16.—JOHN BOYCE, no Lodge named. In the 1723 List he is entered as Senior Warden of the Lodge at Ben's Coffee House in New Road, and in the 1730

List as a member of that held at Mount Coffee House in Grosvenor Street.
 ? Connected with William Boyce, musical composer, born 1710, died 1779;
 first Organist of the Chapel Royal, 1758.

- 26.—1725. Sept. 16.—SAMUEL ADEY, from the Rummer in Henrietta Street, Covent Garden. In the 1725 List Mr. Eady is one of the members of this Lodge.
- 27.—1725. Sept. 30.—ASHTON BERTLES, from the Lodge at the Ship, behind the Exchange. This Lodge does not occur in the 1725 List, though it is found in both editions of Pine's Engraved Lists of 1725, as well as in the Lists of 1723. Mr. John Lane suggests that it has accidentally been left out of the 1725 List, which is probably the correct explanation. His name does not occur in the Lists.
- 28.—1725. Sept. 30.—ROBERT WARD, from the Lodge at the Queen's Head, Great Queen's Street. He is entered as a member of this Lodge in the 1723 List; of the Globe Tavern, at Moore Gate, and the Queen's Head, Great Queen's Street, in the 1725 List.
- 29.—1725. Sept. 30.—THOMAS GILBERT, from the Lodge at the Queen's Head, Holles Street. He is the last on the List of Members of the Lodge held at Tom's Coffee House, Clare Market, and occupies the same place in the List of the Queen's Head in the 1725 List; his name is in the List of Members of the Lodge at the Vine Tavern, Holbourn, in the 1730 List. He supplied the clothing for the festivals of the Society.
- 30.—1725. Oct. 14.—JAMES CUNNINGHAM, from the Lodge at Lubeck's Head, Maiden Lane. He is the fifth on the list of this Lodge (Lebeck's Head) in the 1725 List, and a member of the Black Lion in Jocky Fields in the 1730 List.
- 31.—1725. Oct. 14.—THOMAS DAY, from the Lodge at the Rose and Crown Westminster. Tho. Day was the Senior Warden of the Lodge at the Queen's Head in Knaves Acre in the 1723 List. His name does not appear as a member of either the Queen's Head or the Rose and Crown in the 1725 List.
- 32.—1725. Oct. 14.—HENRY PRUDE, from the Lodge at the Queen's Head, Great Queen's Street. He is entered as the Master of this Lodge in the 1723 List, and was still a member in the 1725 List. Grand Steward in 1723 and 1724. An Apothecary.
- 33.—1725. Oct. 14.—ISAAC THURET (or THURIT), from the Lodge at y^e Temple of Solomon. He became a member. See No. 5, p. xliii.
- 34.—1725. Oct. 28.—WILLIAM NORWOOD, from the Lodge at Dr. Butler's Head, Gerrard Street. His name does not occur in the Lists, nor does Dr. Butler's Head, as the name of a tavern appear in the lists of Masonic Houses. (See List of Lodges, p. lvi.)
- 35.—1725. Nov. 11.—JOHN ATWOOD, from the Lodge at the Fleece near Temple Bar. He became a member. See List No. 31, p. xlix.
- 36.—1725. Nov. 18.—NOAH REGNAUT, late Lodge at the Whyte Lyon in Wytch Street. His name does not appear in the Lists, nor does the tavern in either the List of 1723 or 1725. It seems only to be found in one of Pine's engraved Lists of 1725.

Mr. Rignaud was a member of the Crown at St. Gyles's, and Elias Regnaud [Regnaud] of the French Lodge, at the Swan in Long Acre, in the 1730 Ms. List.

- 37.—1725. Dec. 2.—JOHN LIELL, from the Lodge at the Dolphin in Tower Street. His name does not appear among the members of this Lodge in either the 1723 or 1725 Lists.
- 38.—1725. Dec. 16.—HARRY SADIER, from the Lodge at the Freemason's Coffee House, Belton Street. He was a member of the Red Lion in Tottenham Court Road, 1723 List. Of the Crown and Sceptre, St. Martin's Lane, 1725 List. A member of the Free Masons Coffee House, New Belton Street, of which Lodge Mr. Frederick Sadier was Master, in the 1725 List.
- 39.—1725. Dec. 16.—PHIL: HORDERN, from the Lodge at the Queen's Head, Holles Street. His name does not appear among the members of this Lodge in the 1725 List, nor elsewhere.
- 40.—1725. Dec. 23.—FRA. SORELL, Senior Grand Warden from the Lodge at the Horn, Westminster, of which Lodge he is entered as Junior Warden in the List in the 1723 Constitutions, and as a member in the 1725 List. Grand Senior Warden 1723, Grand Junior Warden 1724; elected with others 24th June, 1738, to serve on the first Committee of Charity. He was a bookseller.
- 41.—1725. Dec. 23.—ALEX. HARDENE, M[aster] of the Lodge at the Horn, Westminster. Was Senior Warden of this Lodge, 1723 List; Alex^r. Hardene, Esq^r., was Master in the 1725 List.
- 42.—1725. Dec. 23.—CHARLES DELAFAYE [Esq.], from the Lodge held at the Horn, Westminster. He is styled Esquire in the 1723 and 1725 Lists, when entered as a member of the Horn. In the Book of Constitutions of 1723 and 1738, brother Charles De la Fay, Esq., is named as the author of "The Fellow Crafts' Song" to be sung and played at the Grand Feast. On the last page of the text (p. 91) is a list of "Some Books printed for J. Senex and J. Hooke." See No. 10, p. li.; it contains the following: "The Musick of the Fellow-Crafts Song, containing several sheets, being too much to be herewith printed, the Lodge, to which the Authors of the Song and Music belong, will afford it in Manuscript to any other Lodge when desired."
- 43.—1726. June 23.—No name. From the Lodge at the Three Compasses, Silver Street.
- 44.—1726. Oct. 27.—WILLIAM GRANT, from the Lodge at the Half Moon Tavern, Cheapside. He became a member and Director No. 11. See No. 15, p. xlvi.
- 45.—1726. Nov. 17.—No names. From the Lodge at the Leg Tavern, Fleet Street.
- 46.—1727. Mar. 9.—No name. From the Lodge at the Leg Tavern, Fleet Street.
- 47.—1727. Mar. 9.—No name and no Lodge entered.

RIGHT WORSHIPFULL
HIGHLY ESTEEM'D AND WELL-BELOVED BROTHERS.

THE Dignity which the Founders of this R^t Worpfull and Highly Esteem'd Society Confer'd on me when they chose me First President was an honour so unexpected, so Great and so much Vastly Superior to my meritts that I ought to have declin'd it Knowing my inability to act in so difficult and important an Office and which indeed I should have refus'd had I not been induced to the contrary as well to shew a Complasance to my Bro^{rs} as to demonstrate my reall zeal and readiness to Serve this Highly Esteem'd Society to the utmost of my Power Being assur'd that they who Elected me to this Honour would generously Excuse my imperfect endeavours and supply that defect with their Wiser Councils in Carrying on Designs so truly Laudible, it adds not a little to my own Secret Satisfaction that the Directors which were chosen by the Founders to compleat the Thirteen have also thought me worthy to fill the Chair the Second and now the Third Presidentship.

The Great Esteem just Regard and Gratitude for these Vast Honours confer'd on me (as well that you Right Worshipfull and Highly Esteem'd Brothers and such as shall hereafter be deem'd Worthy the Great Honour of being admitted into the Fraternity may be Sensible I have it intirely at heart that nothing in my Power Shall be Omitted for the better Supporting it) make me humbly intreat Yo^r Brotherly and favourable Acceptance of Vizt.

GENTLEMEN AND BROTHERS

282 My Engagements in Norfolk which are of absolute Necessity to the conducting my little affairs and Buildings now depending there, requiring my constant attendance, I find myself (tho' unwilling) yet obliged to desire the permission of this Right Worshipful and highly esteem'd Society, to be by them discharged from being any longer a Director and Member of the said Society; Nothing but an absolute Occasion, and that of some continuance would oblige me to request the favour so much directly contrary to my own Inclinations; And when I take the Liberty to assure you that I shall leave this Society with Reluctance inexpressible, I beg leave to add that I sincerely wish the whole Body, and every individual Member of it as much prosperity as I can possibly hope for in the little private Community of my own Small affairs, as wishing to continue always as I now am and hitherto have endeavoured to approve my Self
